New General Manager for Premier Coal

Premier Coal has a new General Manager in Bill McKinstrey.

Mr McKinstrey brings senior leadership and project experience to the position, which he officially started on site this week (from 31 July).

Starting his career as a plant operator almost 40 years ago, Bill has worked in roles ranging from supervisor, superintendent and project manager through to executive general manager and director across many resources operations on the east coast of Australia.

Bill replaces Glenn Burlinson who retired earlier this month after three years as General Manager.

Bill said he was looking forward to the new role, working with all stakeholders, and continuing the ongoing challenge of ensuring Premier Coal is a sustainable business.
